

Hello J2 Students and Parents,

I hope everyone had a great weekend! Looks like most of you are beginning to navigate through the websites and access the daily materials. If anyone is having trouble or confusion please feel free to contact me through Dojo or email so that I can help guide you.

This week's assignments on SeeSaw are a Kindergarten review. Therefore, I would like to give you the first few days to practice and navigate through the materials. Also, time to figure out how to make the daily schedule work best for you and your family. I understand that some families have multiple children working at different paces, others have special needs with parents working and so forth. I have provided an example schedule on the classroom website <https://misskinsey.weebly.com/> of how things would be conducted in the classroom daily, but also understand not everyone can stick to that schedule specifically. I encourage you to manage your time however is best for you as long as all weekly assignments are completed.

I will be sending out Webex invites later this week to meet with the students live and discuss how things are going. In addition, I will be adding video lessons to the classroom website to give further instructions to both parents and students on how to complete daily activities like Writer's Workshop and other daily routines.

Thank you,
Miss Kinsey
